

Community Learning Series

New Horizons is pleased to host an information session with our local Conservation Officers.

These Officers have kindly agreed to be available for this question-and-answer session and to provide updates on issues affecting our local area. Bring your questions about the environment, fish and wildlife, chronic wasting disease, hunting and fishing regulations, human-wildlife conflicts, or any other areas within their broad range of responsibilities. Conservation Officers are part of a law enforcement agency that specializes in public safety as it relates to human-wildlife conflicts, and they are highly trained, dedicated individuals.

Everyone is welcome to come out, ask questions, and learn about this important public safety service.

Where: Rotacrest Hall, upper level

When: Tuesday, August 18, at 10:00 am

Donations gratefully accepted at the door.

Hosted by New Horizons

info@crestonnewhorizons.ca